

The Delaware Valley Bead Society

Annual Open House

Join us for an up-close look at unique, handcrafted jewelry and fashion accessories created by 20 members of the Delaware Valley Bead society. Some of the techniques that will be demonstrated are bead stringing, bead loom weaving, wire work, metal work, and Kumihimo braiding.

Founded in 2002, DVBS brings together some of our most innovative local craftpersons dedicated to promoting original handmade jewelry. The organization has become a thriving arts community that includes beaders, stringers, wire-workers, metalsmiths, glass bead lampworkers, fiber artists, polymer clay and precious metal artists, and others who incorporate both novel and traditional materials and techniques into their work.

The DVBS welcomes new members with all skill levels: beginner to advanced.

The Open House is held in conjunction with the DVBS
April exhibition at the North County Branch Library.
