

The Musical History of the 1950's... From Dino to Doo Wop

Join us at the Hunterdon County Library for a live musical story on how the 1950's musical trends would evolve from Big Band, to Pop, to Rock and Roll.

Joey G. will take you on a journey through the era they called the "Fabulous 50s" and how in ten short years, radio stations would go from playing Sinatra to airing the musical likes of teenagers across the entire county and a new music called Rock N Roll. Along with an invention called TV, the whole county would see a young man they simply would call "Elvis" and hear a new music that would change the way we would listen to music forever.
